become flexible

It all seems so effortless when dancers perform a choreography before our eyes and bring the portrayed characters to life. But as we follow their gracefully created forms with the due admiration, we are nevertheless fully aware of the prerequisites for a successful performance:

... The dancers must make disciplined use of all the strength, elegance and flexibility offered by the human body – the “material” at their disposal. ...

What the dancers experience through the immediate applause of their audience is similarly the objective of our daily work. We, too, would like to captivate our customers. And we are convinced that long-term success can only be achieved with discipline, perseverance and a well attuned team.

We already have the perfect ingredients: A material and work processes which can be adapted flexibly to customer requirements.

... After all, our motto is: become flexible! ...

Flexibility for you

A dance performance can only be successful if strong and elegant bodies also adapt flexibly to the demands of the specified choreography.

... With PTFE, we use a material with all the properties which our customer expect from a high-performance polymer. ...

At the same time, however, we are able to add fillers to accommodate even more specific applications. But it is not only our material which adjusts its form and structure to suit new customer demands. We are likewise constantly optimising our processes. Flexibility is for us not just an end in itself.

... We are: flexible for you. ...

A strong performance

A well-trained body is an imperative prerequisite for a dancer. But it takes more to ensure that the endless rehearsals are crowned with a flourishing performance. Even the triumph of a solo dancer is dependent on successful teamwork.

... We know that we owe our success above all to one of the strongest bonds in organic chemistry. PTFE is characterised by its high chemical resistance and exceptional thermal properties. ...

But it is only in combination with the competence, know-how and above all the team spirit of every single one of our employees that it satisfies the specific wishes of our industrial customers. That is evidence of the one thing, above all others, which you can expect from both our material and the cooperation with our team:

... A strong performance. ...

Confidence in the possibilities

There is hardly a single dance element which functions without confidence. Dancers must have confidence in their body, their partner and their choreographers, in order to bring their full potential to the stage.

... With PTFE, our customers place their confidence in a material which demonstrates its reliability in daily use in a multitude of industrial applications. ...

And they place confidence in a company in which not only the quality of the products is undisputed. We are above all a dependable partner in our business relationships and for our employees. After all, you can only hope to develop tailored materials if you have confidence in the possibilities.

Our vision - become flexible

Perfect solutions are today a product of team spirit, expert knowledge, experience and passion. Both in dancing and in industry. A good performance demands a team in which everyone works with determination and enthusiasm towards a common goal.

With our products and services, we offer tailored materials which are matched optimally and reliably to the needs of our customers. For us, only a perfect fit counts. Reap the benefits for yourself:
